Serviceability of Earth Retaining Structures: Proceedings of Sessions Sponsored by the Geotechnical Engineering Division of the American Society of (Geotechnical Special Publication)

Civil Engineers increasingly face decisions concerning the serviceability of existing earth retaining structures. Serviceability limit states describe the functional disruption, which occurs during normal use due to excessive deformation or deterioration. The papers presented in this proceedings, "Serviceability of Earth Retaining Structures", contain long-term performance data not readily available for many systems, discuss uncertainties arising as a result of various contracting procedures and liability issues, and describe serviceability limits. Both the performance aspects that lead to the decision to rehabilitate as well as the nature of the rehabilitation are emphasized. In addition, several papers present design methodologies for unconventional applications of existing technology.
